THE FIRST SERVICES.

The New Trinity Church Opened with Impressive Features.

The new edifice of Trinity Protestant Episcopal church was fermally opened for religious worship yester-day by most impressive and I spiring services in the presence of large congregations. The musical portion of the exercises was a delight and pleasure to the attendants of these services, and much praise is due to the chorister, T. Griffith Smith, and the organist, Mrs. N. L. Moon, for the excellence of this important feature. In the morning, the Rev. Dr. Olmstead, of Rala, Pa., preached a masterly sermon, which was delivered without notes, and he held the attention of the large congregation closely. In the evening, Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, bishop of the Central diocese of Penn-sylvania, delivered a sermon before another large congregation.

The services of the day began with the holy communion at 6.30 a. m., administered by Rev. Rollin A. Sawyer, rector of the church, in the chapel. At 10.30 a. m., the large and beautiful church was thrown open for the first morning service ever held in it. Many of the parishoners and others fortunate enough to secure tickets of admission, sought seals long before the hour of worship. But there was no crowding; everyone was accommodated and by the time the organ began to send forth its 3rst waves of harmony, the audience was nearly all in readiness and a stillness prevailed, which was broken by the faint sounds of the choir singing in the distance the first lines of the beautiful processional: "Savior, blessed Savior, listen while we sing," and then the supliced choir of forty male and female voices, proceeded from one of the side wings to their benches to the chancel, with the clergy following and Bishop Talbot at the end, followed by his staff-bearer, and Rev. T. D. Olmstead, the gospel, Rev. Sidncy Evans delivered the prayer: Rev. Benjamin Abbott real the epistle.

The first lesson of the day was read by Lay Reader George C. Hart, from Genesis, twenty-eighth chapter, commoneing at the tenth verse. The seclesson was fina Revelations, to enty-first chapter, from the tenth and cond by Lat Reader T. Coldin Smith. The version were charted by the clongs and the retmases by the choir, rendering a very

Dr. Olmstead began his sermon by taking up the importance of bleak the everything, especially in religion. This comes to us from above and it teaches us how to believe and how to warship He dwelt upon the fact that as God told Moses to make everything for the tabernacle according to the pattern shown him in the mount, they might expect there might be some heavenly pattern for the worship of Christians, the heavenly worship as seen by St. John in the vision of which the text formed a part. The object of this worship is of God conceived of as a holy being. We wor-ship a God of holiness, not a sentimental God, not a God who minimizes the fact of sin, and our worship, if it be true and sincere, assimilates us to him and we become holy, and the holy worship that the church leads us to convinces others also to worship, as the worship of the four living creatures induced the worship of the four and twenty elders.

Those who stand outside the church building see nothing in the windows but the leaden panes and possibly they may picture grotesque forms in those windows, but those who come into this building, spoken of as the church, see the light of heaven and interpret If you might prefer to stay outside of the religion of Christ, you cannot expect to understand it, but if you will join yourself to it and live under its influence it will show its glories to you. Our religion, to be understood, must be experienced. After the close of the sermon holy communion was administered. Rev. Mr. Sawyer announced that in order not to unduly prolong the service the communion would be administered to the clergy only. Bishop Talbot was the celebrant. The following partook of the communion; Rt. Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, bishop of the central diocese of Pennsylvania, of South Bethlehom: Rev. Sidney Evans, of Lancaster, Pa., acting chaptain to the bishop; Rev. Benjamin Abbott, Carbondale; Rev. M. B. Nash, junior curate St. Luke's church, Scranton; Rev. Dr. T. D. Olmstead, Bala, Pa., and Rev. R. A. Sawyer, rector of Trinity church.

Mrs. George Mills sang the beautiful solo part of Harry Roe Shelly's anthem, "The King of Love My Shep-herd Is," in exquisite voice, for the

ton will hold a session in the new churen at 11 a. m., to which all com-municants of the church are invited At 4 p. n., the Archdeaconry will hold another session, at which there will be short speeches by its members and also addresses by various clergymen of Carbondale. A. 8 p. m., there will be a reception .5 the bish p in the parish house, to which the public are invited. These services will conclude the dedicatory exercises.

AN UNEQUALED RECORD

There Is a Rapidly Increasing Volume of Scranton Evidence Rolling Up for the Great Medicine, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

It would seem that hardly anyone an take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet who are in a weak, run-down condition is the talk of every place they are known. It is only a short time since they first came to Scranton, yet today they are more in evidence for merit with Scranton people than all other medicines combined.

Mrs. John Penster, of No. 432 Lee court. Scranton, Pa., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills that I got at Matthews Bros.' drug store, No. 320 Lackawanna avenue, are a fine mediine indeed, I was suffering with a closing movement. lot of pain in the left side, over the spleen-a gnawing pain-but nothing seemed to stop it. I was restless and nervous, as well as run down. The nerve pills, however, proved just the thing, stopping the pain and nervousness and giving me strength and energy. I can say this conscientiously, and am pleased to think I can." Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. a box at dealers, or Dr. A. At the close a social will be held at W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
